Disability Innovation Summit

A unique opportunity to join international academics, disabled people, practitioners, community members, partners, organisations and innovators to shape the future of disability.

- Understand the latest global technologies and research
- Hear from leading innovators, academics and athletes
- Explore disability dance, fashion and art
- Help create the future of disability innovation

Global Disability Innovation Hub

A dedicated research, teaching, practice and online community born out of the legacy of the London 2012 Paralympic Games and the world-leading institutions connected to Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park.

The Global Disability Innovation Hub brings together the expertise of University College London, London College of Fashion, Loughborough University London, Leonard Cheshire Disability, Sadler's Wells Theatre, the V&A and The Helen Hamlyn Centre for Design, as well as disabled people and the communities and experts that delivered London 2012.
